

LEARNING ABOUT NEW CULTURES AND PRACTISING

Learning is the most important thing in human life. We learn every day and develop. In life, we teach new things to our partners, families, friends and students. Here it's the critical thing "the way". It's important to know the methods and respect the differences. Our children are on the way of creating new ways and new methods. We are just guides to them. Even sometimes we learn new things from them. What do you think about learning new cultures, new methods and new ways altogether ?

AIMS

The main aim of this project is to find opportunity to learn about different cultures and lifestyles, finding out differences and learn how to be respectful to each other and individual differences. Second aim is practising with foreign people with a foreign language. Another one is communicating young and same aged pupils through twinspace. This project will be the first step for the other (more complicated) ones. I hope this one will be helpful to feel themselves encouraged to achieve more.

Ps:1) Our main goals will be added to twinspace as titles and a calendar will be created. So every colleague will be informed all sections in detail.

2) We want to transform it to an Erasmus+ project. (KA1 or KA2)

WORK PROCESS

There are a lot of activities in this project. First we will start with an introduction step. Our partner schools and we will introduce each other to another with photographs. We can use professional photos indeed. We will make a "Welcome to Our School" corner on the most in sight of our school building. We donate this corner with boards, colorful cardboards, pictures and photos (especially giving information about our new members) Because everyone has to know about this project. This is the one of our most important aims. Then we will organize a conference at our school, a kind of briefing. We can add short videos about it. Then will demand mutual topics to discuss for every months and talk on it by the ways that is served us through twinspace. Even we can organize pen friends groups among our students . You can offer or demand any topics to discuss. Our ones are: Turkey's culture, Feelings about meetings with new freinds. Food culture, Ethics, Education System

EXPECTED RESULTS

Expected results are: leading more conversations, more projecets and more developings, causing more self reliant pupils, learning being respectful to another culture, another religion and another lifestyle.
